

Media Advisory – February 27-29

U.S. EMBASSY HAVANA

Grammy Award-winning jazz pianist, songwriter, and music producer Robert Glasper will join the U.S. Embassy in Havana to celebrate Black History Month from February 27 to 29. Glasper's visit will feature jazz sessions, master classes, and conversations with Cuban students and independent entrepreneurs. These sessions will explore the intersection of music and entrepreneurship, highlighting the influence of black culture on musical expression.

On February 29, Glasper will showcase his talent with a performance at Fabrica de Arte Cubano. The Embassy, in collaboration with JAZZEMPRENDE, will facilitate this visit.

Robert Glasper will be available for interviews on February 27 from 4 to 6 pm. Additionally, background conversations, master classes, and jazz sessions may be open to interested parties.

Glasper will share insights into how black culture has shaped music and fostered diverse societies. He will also explore the role of music as a catalyst for inclusion and entrepreneurship.

Engaging with young Cuban students and entrepreneurs, Glasper's visit will illuminate their connection to the spirit of inclusion through music and empowerment through entrepreneurship.
